The Beginning of Pride Month

Pride began after the Stonewall Riots occurred in 1969 at Stonewall Inn, a New York City bar many people in the LGBTQ community frequented at the time. It was considered a refuge, where they could socialize in safety. However, it was still under regular police harassment. In the early hours of June 28, 1969, nine policemen roughed up many of its patrons, cleared the bar and arrested anyone not wearing gender-appropriate clothing.
